

Journalist Fellowship Summer School

8-12 July 2019

5-day Summer School for practising, mid-career journalists to help you understand the challenges of an ever-changing global media landscape, and take your career and work to the next level.

Seminars and discussions on

Misinformation

Revenue models

Technology

Ethics

Free speech

Democracy

Economics and finance and privileged access to the Reuters Institute's world-leading research including author presentations of the Digital News Report, our leading study into media trends across 37 countries.

£1,000 (without accommodation) or
£1,350 (with accommodation)

Location: Reuters Institute, University of Oxford,
13 Norham Gardens, Oxford, OX2 6PS

Includes lunch, coffee and refreshments, and two formal dinners

More information online:

[https://reutersinstitute.politics.ox.ac.uk/
journalist-fellowship-summer-school-2019](https://reutersinstitute.politics.ox.ac.uk/journalist-fellowship-summer-school-2019)

Apply

Please send an email clearly marked 'Summer school' in the subject line, along with a CV, work samples and a cover letter to Philippa Garson, Events and Fellowship Officer:

philippa.garson@politics.ox.ac.uk. Also state whether you are applying for accommodation.

Application deadline: Monday 6 May (midnight)

Payment deadline for accepted applicants: Monday 3 June